Attention Conventional Bulls-eye Pistol Shooters

The MSU Demmer Center invites you to compete in the NRA 2016 International Standard Pistol Sectional.

The Sectional is Saturday, March 26\textsuperscript{th} 2016. Register on-line at the Demmer Center site or call our customer service counter today. The official match program is posted on the Demmer site. This is a registered NRA Championship.

NRA International Style Pistol is very similar to conventional bulls-eye, consisting of slow, timed, and rapid fire stages with comparable time limits. A difference worth noting is that shooters begin each stage with their firing arm at a 45° angle. Using your .22LR pistol with iron sights, and a trigger that picks up 2.2 pounds, you are ready to compete. Specific rules regarding pistol specifications can be found in the NRA’s International Pistol rule book. Most pistols used in area bulls-eye leagues are readily adaptable for use in International Standard Pistol. The course of fire requires 60 shots plus sighting shots. The NRA B33 50 foot target is used.

The Demmer Center is holding two practice matches prior to the Sectional to familiarize shooters to the range commands and match standards. All interested shooters are welcome to practice on Wednesday March 9\textsuperscript{th} and 23\textsuperscript{rd}. The first practice firing order will start at 6pm. No cost to attend the practice.
